PLAY THERAPY COURSE

Unlike adults, children often fail to express their feelings to parents, and hence they get problems in concentration leading to anxiety. This communication gap between the child and adults leads to multiple misunderstandings too. Play therapy is an effective way to learn kids' verbal and nonverbal cues.

In Mindsight clinic's play therapy course, you will learn behavioral control of kids and will fill the gap between parents and children correctly. You will also explore different stages of cognitive development of a child and how play therapy can influence it all at different levels.
